Prez Sez

by Terry Abrahams

Hello to all! This newsletter follows a little close to the last, but hopefully it will put us back on schedule.

I got a note from Charlie Dyer asking me to fix some information about his group on a website I didn't even know existed - www.foff.org. I went to that site, only to find that the Tampa information was also wrong. But the website is wonderful, and the person I've been corresponding with is very sensitive to everyone's needs. I am personally going to join the FOFF (Friends of Florida Folk). I recommend that you at least look at the site and think of supporting them as well (and check your group's info). I will be sending news of our camp to them, as well as to other organizations such as New England Folk Festival Association (NEFFA). If you know of any other group with a website or newsletter that would encourage people to attend our camp, please let me know how to contact them.

Last month I asked everyone to help find recipes. Arleen Kaufmann hopped right on it and sent me some wonderful recipes for Hungarian dishes. Thanks Arleen!

Other camp stuff: I just received a little bad news. Angel, the accordionist, can't get a visa to the United States. So he won't be coming to camp. The second bad news is that we were offered a substitute - a kaval player, but he discovered a conflict and can't make it either. So, at the moment, Daniela will be teaching from her CDs - too bad. Should anything change, I'll let you know.

I promised to have the teachers' websites (with biographies) available for your perusal - to help you see what a wonderful camp this will be! Bulgarian dance teacher Daniela Ivanova's is www.dancing.cult.bg. Go to "about us" on the left.

Aron Szekely, our Hungarian, has a whole blog going with information about what he's doing, what he's thinking, etc. Go to www.hungarianfolkdance.net. Click where it says "pictures" and you will find his biography as well as

What's a Kaval?

Picking up on what our Prez sez - Do you know what a kaval is? I didn't; so, naturally, I Googled it and found a website - www.robertsnider.com/Kavals/. The short explanation is that a kaval is a very old folk flute from the Balkans, notably Bulgaria, Macedonia, and Turkey (picture above). It is an end-blown flute with eight finger holes. An end-blown flute is one which has no windway or fipple on the end you blow into, but is just a straight hollow tube. If you want more, go to the website. It even has sound samples, including a Trite Puti.

Sharpes Assembly

by Catie Condran Geist

The Sharpes Assembly English Country Dance weekend at historic Kenilworth Lodge in Sebring on the first weekend of October was a delightful event for at least 70 dancers and musicians. We danced to the fantastic music of Full Circle from Jacksonville on Friday and Saturday nights. The guest teacher and caller was Bruce Hamilton, president of the Country Dance and Song Society, from Menlo Park, California. His teaching and calling is absolutely marvelous and we learned many lessons about how to dance and how to move as well as learning many new and lovely dances.

There were an English country dance on Friday evening called by all of the callers, two English workshops on Saturday morning taught by Bruce Hamilton (with music by Sheila Cootes and Bill Possi), a Fundamentals of English session taught by John Daly, a folk dance session in which Veronica Lane taught Israeli dances on Saturday afternoon, followed by a session of Recreational English taught and called by all of the callers. On Sunday morning all of the callers took turns teaching and calling dances. The weekend was over way too soon and I wish it could have gone on forever!

Please mark your calendars for the first weekend of October in 2007 (5th-7th) and plan to attend another wonderful weekend of English Country Dancing in Sebring.

Tampa Scandinavian Performance and Workshop

On Saturday, October 21, six dancers - Kevin and Nil Wilkins, Judith and Ernesto Baizan and Caroline and Gary Lanker - performed Scandinavian dances at Tampa's Anderson Park Fall Festival. Kevin and Nil should be familiar to some of you. They danced in Gainesville. and Tampa years ago.

After the performance, the dancers, well warmed up, moved inside the Kate Jackson Recreation Center for Judith's semi-regular monthly Scandi workshop and danced the rest of the afternoon.

Photos by Sara Wilkins, Caroline Lanker and Gary Lanker

Judith really flew doing Schottis fran Viksta with Kevin.

A little audience participation ...

Ladies, take note - Ernesto and John Daly are dancing (no, not wrestling) with each other due to a severe shortage of women. If you have ever complained about a lack of men for couple dances, try Judith's Scandi classes and workshops! See announcement of next Scandinavian Workshop in Events and Tours.

Czechs Celebrate Independence Day - Tampa Dancers Help

by Terry Abrahams

Judith, Ernesto, Bobbie Ward, Andy P. and Terry all hopped in one car and drove on a perfectly gorgeous day to the Masaryktown Community Center (M. is a small Czech town) to help the Czechs and Slovaks celebrate their Independence Day on Sunday, October 29. (We used to go up there for an occasional dance, but hadn't heard of one in a long time - thanks to Julius for discovering this one.)

Dinner was served to over 300 people at 11:30 (choice of chicken and rice or sausage, potatoes and sauerkraut), followed by introductions, singing of all possible anthems, a memorial "service" for servicemen from the area, clever and pleasant entertainment by a pair of singers, and a performance by the Beseda Folk Dancers. There were 4 couples dancing, doing similar dances to what Vonnie Brown taught us. Their costumes were terrific; their dancing was not as good as FFDC dancers, but we thoroughly enjoyed them anyway.

Bobbie & Ernesto

Then a band - Mario Deleon and friend - the piece de resistance - played while many people danced, but especially us! We three women shared the two men, and the music was great. Mario played the accordion, pushed the computer rhythm button and the other guy played every kind of reed instrument. They sounded almost like a big band! They played waltzes, polkas, tangos, rumbas, etc. and when we asked, did a Czardas as well. We had a terrific time!

We ended the day by crossing the road to visit my daughter the groomer and pictures of him. You can also see videos of him dancing.

Real dancers never quit!

Cece Zaffuto, the flamenco dancer that many of us know. I forgot to get on their mailing list, but will rectify that soon. Shades of the old days!

It's time to start thinking camp scholarships. We have the Olga Princi fund, which helps a new (hopefully youngish) dancer, as well as work scholarships. If you're thinking of not coming to camp because of your finances, please apply for one of these scholarships. And spread the word to others in your group. Send requests for scholarships to me. We want everyone there!

I just got a message from the Florida Folk Festival people. If we'd like to perform there (we have in former years), we have to submit "stuff" by Dec. 1. Are there people out there that would want to do a performance? I believe we'll have to have a video of us dancing somewhere in order to qualify. Do we have any past videos of us dancing? Do any of your specific groups have anything - I don't think we would have to have those exact people in our show after we pass muster. Please e-mail me if you feel the least bit interested in this concept. The festival is Memorial Day Weekend.

OK - that's enough for this month from your Sexy Prexy - yeah - in my dreams!

Views of Greece Perspectives on a Tour with Jim Gold and Lee Otterholt

From Pat Henderson:

On October 14, several FFDC members boarded a plane in Orlando, headed for JFK and then on to Athens for either a 14 or 16 day tour of Greece. Bobby and I joined Kelly Fagan, Ann Robinson, Fannie Salerno, Willa Davidsohn, Bernice Roth, Claudia and Joe Terrence, and Jan Lathi at the Orlando airport. We met other dancers with Florida connections in New York: Annette Brand from Ottawa, who dances frequently in Orlando, Carol McGinn, FFDC member now living in Albuquerque, and Mary Lea Bailey who formerly danced in Orlando. We also enjoyed getting to know Andi Kapplin's cousin, Ada Glustein, of Vancouver. The entire group consisted of 38 people from the United States, Canada and Norway.

We explored Athens in three days, took a four-day road trip to the Peloponnese and Central Greece and then a four-day cruise to five Greek islands plus the port of Kusadasi and ancient Ephesus, Turkey.

Of course, the main attraction of the whole trip was the dancing, handled splendidly by Lee Otterholt. We had four Greek and Turkish dance workshops and several international dance sessions in hotels and on our cruise ship with Lee. We now know the difference between a Kalamatianos and an island Syrto.

Those of you who have been to Greece know the sheer amazement of looking at structures and statues that are thousands of years old. We explored ancient ruins at almost every stop and visited the museums by the archaeological sites. This trip gave us the opportunity to see Greece (and Ephesus) in all its glory with the added dimension of dancing.

In a Restaurant under the Monasteries/Cliffs at Meteora

Some of us found a taverna in Athens with live music and danced there twice. We were the sole audience in a night club that called in its six performers for a show and we danced with them. They were floored at how well we danced, especially when each of our men did the Zeibekiko. Lunch in an estiatorio (restaurant) at Meteora resulted in more dancing and plates being broken on the floor. This is what happens when lunch includes about 10 Greek dishes and all the wine, ouzo and retsina that we want.

Most of the Floridians and friends enjoyed the extension on Santorini, an island that has its two largest cities built on the edge of the caldera of a still-active volcano. It was the Ochi holiday, which commemorates when the Greeks said "NO" to Mussolini, refusing to join the Axis powers in World War II. We saw a parade and later Jim got some Pontian dancers to come to our hotel and perform for us. This was such a great trip and Jim Gold is doing it again next year if you are interested!

See more from Pat in Orlando International Folk Dance Club.

From Willa Davidsohn:

This was a fabulous trip. From the visit to the Acropolis in Athens to the last day in Santorini, we enjoyed beauty, history, dancing, food, and even the thousands of stairs we trudged up and galloped down.

There was an evening when Lee taught the Old Man's Dance and later did the Tango with Carol - a real treat.

Someone proposed a race in the Olympus stadium and four of the men actually did it. Robert won, but only because Lee danced half way down the course before breaking into a run. Result: one strained leg muscle and fun for all.

The two monasteries we visited in Meteora on a misty, rainy day were awe inspiring. They rose way up, placed on huge rocks and accessed by stairs going down, then up and crossing a bridge. It was something out of a fairytale. All in all it was a fabulous journey!

Impressions from Kelly Fagan:

A journey of deepening friendships, discovery, playfulness, learning, EATING, and, oh yes....dancing!

From Jim Gold:

Greece was ... intense, dramatic, personal, great dancing, and sights, the works! I was really thrilled with the program and people who went with us.

Terry Does Tampa

All my friends who could make it (about 60) did a wonderful job of helping me turn 70. The party was held at the Harbor Club, a very nice venue that might do for a Fling. Everybody brought great food, we danced some, ate a lot, talked even more, a few of my talented friends sang to me, Cece Zaffuto and friends did some hot flamenco dancing (picture below), the cake was delicious, cards and a variety of gifts were clever, and I have a wonderful collage of my life to keep as a memory. For those of you who did the Sharpes Assembly weekend instead, I don't hold it against you and just hope you had as good a time as I did. Thanks everyone for the nice e-mail cards, messages, phone calls, etc. I think I won't wait until 80 for the next big bash— I'll do 75!

Andi popped to Chicago to see her wonderful lawyer daughter and writer son-in-law. Ursula is still recovering from her hip replacement surgery. Judith had another wonderful Scandi workshop – with too many men! Wish we could get those extra men to our international group.

Kevin and Nil, who have re-joined both Scandi and International with great gusto are truly a help to both groups – such nice big smiles and memories that are returning for the oldie dances. Bobbie and Barbara are also often in attendance, so we can sometimes make a circle! Andy P is quite involved in the Swing community doing a lot of taping for them as well as attending workshops and dancing a few times a week.

Susan and I (most of you haven't met her) went to the Folk Festival in Sarasota, where we saw Thekla Kahn doing a terrific job of volunteering. We got terribly lost on the way (yes, it's me, Terry), almost gave up, stopped in at an adorable Pumpkin Fest, and then finally made it. It was very low key, but very nice, with singers on 3 different stages and a little food – lots of shade, and much easier than the biggie up in north FL. One group is two gals that play contra music for us. Speaking of contra, the Snowball is coming in January – if you haven't registered, it may be too late. I went on that evening to an Israeli singer's concert, so that was one full day! Next weekend will be equally busy, going to Bata Marcetic's performance, the Greek Festival and Fiddler on the Roof, with a good friend of mine singing the Tevya lead. Ain't life grand!

Israeli Folk Dance in Sarasota

On October 5, Mary Finegold gave an Israeli Folk Dance demonstration to two Booker Performing Arts High School dance classes who were studying cultural diversity in dance. They learned Yemenite, Arabic, and classic horas popular in the folk dance repertoire. Cheryl Cohan, Mary Finegold and friends are giving two more demonstrations, to Temple Beth Israel November 6 and the Venice Jewish Community Center annual dinner on November 4. The dances will focus on the variety of dances displayed in Israeli Dancing through the last fifty years.

Mary and Cheryl run the local Israeli Folk Dancing Monday evening sessions at Colonial Park Community Center in Sarasota. If interested in attending e-mail: marifine@earthlink.net or call (941) 727-5109.

Gainesville Gossip

by Jack Seltzer

It's been a busy month for us, with visitors coming by: Shelley, from Washington DC bringing us "Turkish Kiss" dance (Israeli), Arleen Kaufmann coming back from the past bringing us her smiles, and new folks such as Mirelle, from Brittany, and Shaila, from Julieta's early folk dance experiences. We finished the month with a fun Halloween party of dancing, non-stop for 3 hours.

Gary and Peg Kirkpatrick have been having a blast living in Paris since September. Gary sent an e-mail about their travails trying to rent a studio apartment, but it has a happy ending. Here are some excerpts about the place they finally rented. If you've ever stayed in Paris in nice but not luxurious accommodations, this may bring back memories.

"We scooted over to the 3rd arrondissement. The 3rd is in the middle of things and an old district, and this apartment is within spitting distance of the Pompidou Center... We're used to small elevators. This one has a capacity of three, which in American English means one and a half... But it was newish, the lobby was in good shape, and the building and its large courtyard oozed charm.

"[After the elevator ride,]...we saw we only had to climb a few stairs to reach [the apartment on] the highest level. They were steep, but very pretty, and someone had put ropes as handrails, a rather nautical touch. Aeronautical, I thought, meaning the climb angle could easily cause a plane to stall.

"The studio is 35 square meters (almost 400 sq.ft.)... We found it very charming, with old wooden ceiling joists beneath a white plaster ceiling [and] a v-shaped roof support separating the bedroom area from the living area...Peg and I tried to walk past each other in [the bathroom] and almost got stuck.

"From all the windows you can see Notre Dame, the Pompidou Center (just across the street, so you have to be a very good spitter), and lots of neat roof profiles. ... the Bastille and its excellent street market [are] just 10 minutes away. ... we enjoyed a comfortable night on our very comfortable bed, on top of the Parisian world."

A Note from Jeanie Whitehead

The following note from Jeanie Whitehead, a founder of FFDC, sent to Terry 5/9/06, recently made its way to me. -Ed

Hi Terry,

Each month I So Very Much enjoy reading the FFDC newsletter: and of course, especially about those of you I know, and, I even feel like I'm getting to know others thru it! I'm thrilled and so appreciative that "what we few started" has been so splendidly carried on" !

Prez Sez is Great! You said, "This month I'm just giving dribs and drabs of thoughts." How about another of your "Reminiscings" as you sort of promised last month ----- of course you know that "hit the spot" with me! I'll bet you had a great time going thru that file!

A few weeks ago I went with Craig and Paula to an ECD evening in Black Mountain. WOW!! It seemed like I was actually dancing when the live music played Black Nag! After reading in an issue of this newsletter of Dmitri Babiak's successful knee surgery, I may be a bit closer to having same! In the meantime, My Many Many Mountain Top Experiences in Folk Dancing keep my Toes - A - Tappin'!

Happy Dancing (and Happy Fencing, for which I send you Kudos, and Happy Whatever Other Goings On You Have)!

With Hugs from Jeanie (Whitehead)

1921 – 2006

Conny Taylor passed away on Nov. 4, 2006. He was a major figure in New England folk dancing for many years, from 1953 on. Read his obituary on the Folk Arts Center of New England website, at <http://facone.org/about/conny.htm>.

Orlando International Folk Dance Club

by Pat Henderson

October was a very busy month. It started with Bobby's birthday celebration on October 4, which we combined with our Oktoberfest party night. Here's a picture of the gang (below, left). We had a great celebration, as is usual for our group!

Ellie Hall reported that she was in Indianapolis on October 15 for a 240th birthday party given by her daughter, Barbara, for her and Barb's in-laws, all 80. The party was "fun wonderful." Ellie wore a t-shirt that read, "This damn well better be a happy birthday. I have enough candles to torch the place!" Ellie was also there for the baptism of her 8th great grandchild, who is named after her.

Our big news is the trip to Greece by several of our members. See Views of Greece. We were saddened that Fred and Juanita Schockey were not able to join us due to Fred's illness. We enjoyed seeing Carol McGinn again and hanging out together. I joined her and Kelly Fagan and one other person for a hike up Lycabettus, the highest hill in Athens. You look down on the Acropolis from the top. We were there at sunset and into the evening when all the lights of Athens were visible.

Many of you know that Kelly Fagan is an actress/singer in many musicals in the Central Florida area. Of course, she had to try out all the ancient theatres that we visited. In the theater at Epidaurus, she lit a match and the sound could be heard in the top row. She sang Ave Maria, which immediately silenced groups of tourists in the theater and resulted in very loud applause afterward. In Delphi, she was told that her singing was beautiful but she was not allowed to sing. The reprimand came after she had finished!

OIFDC had its annual Halloween Party one day late, on Wednesday, November 1 (picture at left). Terry came from Tampa and everyone dressed for the occasion. You can see Bobby in his shirt from Rhodes.

We hope to see some of you in the Orlando area for the Serbian Festival (first ever, I believe), November 17-19. If you need a place to stay, let me know.

Syncoop Records, based in the Netherlands, periodically releases, for international circulation, a group of dances chosen by a committee of dance educators and deemed worthy to be included in the international folk dance repertoire. It has been more than two years since the last International Mix came out.

We, east coast South Florida dancers, are very proud to report that Syncoop's recently released CD, International Folk Dances Mix 8, includes "Boi Malka", choreographed by our own Ira Weisburd. Many of Ira's choreographed dances are in the repertoire of dance groups in Florida, the U.S. and internationally. A few of the others are Shuj Shuj Zemer, Barefoot Girl, Turkish Debka and Sonata.

The International Folk Dance Mix CDs are available from Syncoop Productions, Slot Assumburgpad 54, 3123 RR Schiedam, Netherlands. Phone: +31-(0)104707439, Fax: +31-(0)104716701, E-mail: syncoop@wxs.nl, website www.syncoop.com. As this newsletter went to press, Mix 8 was not yet available on their website, however.

From the Editor

Wow, a lot has been going on in Florida Folk Dance circles in the past few weeks. I knew the Greek tour would be a big story. But, with this newsletter coming so close behind the last, I thought that the English Country Dance weekend in Sebring would be about the only other news. Was I wrong! Some people have really been dancing up a storm. I've had to make some choices and have left some material for next month.

Especially for those we haven't heard from in a while: what are you or your group doing, these days? Please write about it. Or send a picture of dancing people - or dogs! Did you see the article about dancing in the July National Geographic? It includes a picture of a dog dancing! Well, maybe we aren't doing anything as unusual as dancing with our dogs. But no matter. This newsletter exists to help keep our far flung dancing community in touch between those few occasions (mostly camp and flings) when we gather together. It will keep serving its purpose as long as you keep reading it and sending your news
